Fisherman's Luck

When one starts to tell a fish story it is generally anticipated that it will be good...and more than likely untrue. The story we are about to tell is undoubtedly "good", and it is true. It was told to us by the "Big Moose" himself. (Yes, none other than our old friend Walt Marshall).

Fishing at Cold Lake last week with Clair Bingham of Salinas, California, Walter had just landed the "Big One" a nineteen pound trout. He put his line over the side again and had it down in the deep water when he got another strike. The line was pulled in and just as they were about to land the catch, another beauty..(Yes, you've guessed it!)..the line broke, and down went the fish with a few feet of gut, the lure and a five pound sinker. Hellsbells. This normally should be the end of the story. But listen to what followed. All lines out but one, were pulled in, the spot was marked, and the launch was taken round in a wide circle and back to the location where the line broke. Again there was a strike. The line was hauled in and to the fishermen's amazement it was seen

U.S. Market for Alberta Coal

The recent action of the U.S. government in deciding to admit Canadian coal without duty, will, it is believed; bring new business to Alberta coal mines, for both domestic and steam coal. The Alberta government trade commissioner has recently been advised of the new arrangement.

New Mountain Highway

Announcement of the intention of the Dominion government to proceed with the completion of the new mountain highway connecting Banff and Jasper national parks in the Alberta Rockies, is received by Alberta people with considerable pleasure. With the announcement comes the statement that labour will be recruited from unemployed ranks at regular rate of wages, which it is believed will assist in relieving the unemployment situation. The new highway, which may be completed within three years, will be one of the finest scenic routes in the world. Some 40 miles have already been completed at the Jasper end, and 17 miles on the Banff end of the route.

that the broken line with the lost lure and fish was tangled with the line just being hauled in. Luck was with them this time however, for they were able to grab the broken line with the fish and land it just before it worked free of the line they had been hauling in.

Clair Bingham thinks Cold Lake is a fine place. A fisherman of considerable ability himself, he greatly admires Walter's style, and it would not surprise us to find this ardent sportsman back here at some future date, ready for another trip to the lake or perhaps to go on a hunting excursion with the "Big Moose".
